Lacy, Corresponding Secretary; Mrs. Coleman Elliott, Treasurer; Mrs. H. J. Daily, Auditor; Directors, Mrs. A. T. Byron, Mrs. Leslie Shroat, Mrs. C. L. Goodmaster.

At the close of the business session a social hour was spent and music was furnished by Misses Grace Crades, Thelma Johnson, Sam Richards and Constance Botts. The club colors, gold and white, were carried out in the decorations and the refreshments of ices and cakes.

CLARENCE B. CASSIDY.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found the announcement of Clarence B. Cassidy, of Salt Lick, as a candidate for the office of County Attorney. Mr. Cassidy's announcement has been delayed because of ill health, incurred while serving with the Marine Corps in France during our recent war with Germany.

After finishing the course in the public schools of this county, he attended the High School in Owingsville, and Transylvania University, at Lexington, and has had several years experience as practitioner in Bath and adjoining counties.

Mr. Cassidy is a man of unswerving integrity and high ability. If elected, there is no doubt but that he will discharge the duties of the office with credit to himself and satisfaction to the public. He thoroughly believes that 100 cents worth of service should be rendered for every dollar paid out in salaries, and will endeavor to live up to that standard if selected for the place to which he aspires.

Clay Royse Boot and Shoe Surgeon.

Clay Royse wishes to announce to his patrons and the public generally that he now has the most modern and best equipped establishments for the repairing of boots and shoes in this part of the State, including machinery for sewing on half-soles and other mending and harness and saddle repair work. Your shoes repaired while you wait, or send your work by parcel post and receive it by return mail properly done.

ROBERT KLINE.

Robt. Kline died at his home in Sharpburg Monday night after long illness of heart trouble. Mr. Kline was 50 years old. He was greatly respected by his community. He is survived by his wife and one son. Burial at Sharpburg Wednesday by the Masonic order.

Card Of Thanks.

We desire to thank our friends and neighbors and especially Dr. Gilmore, who so kindly and tenderly assisted us during the illness and death of our beloved father, J. W. Darnell.

DR. N. T. CLARK.

We your committee to whom was referred the matter of a suitable resolution of respect to the memory of Brother N. T. Clark who died May 24th at the age of 72 years, beg to report as follows.

That since July 2, 1912 Brother Clark has been a consistent member of Bath Lodge No. 55 F. & A. M. who came to us from Fox Lodge No. 264 Campbell, Ky., that we have ever found him a true Mason, in dealing with his fellow men and brother, his charities were measured only by his ability. That he did not hesitate to follow the dictates of conscience and often without any chance of remuneration go when and where needed.

Therefore Be It Resolved That in his death Bath Lodge No. 55 has lost a faithful and true member, his Church a devout christian, his community a loyal and patriotic citizen, whose place cannot be easily taken, and to those of his immediate family and his many friends we offer our sincerest sympathy, and point them to him, the Supreme Architect Who doeth all things, well.

Be It Further Resolved That a vote of thanks be extended Winchester Lodge No. 20 for the courtesy extended Bath Lodge No. 55 in the assistance rendered at the death and burial of Brother Clark.

Be It Further Resolved That these resolutions be spread upon our records, that the same be published in the local newspaper and a copy be sent the family, and to Winchester Lodge No. 20 that this Lodge room be suitably draped, and the brethren wear the usual badge of mourning for a period of thirty days. All of which is most respectfully submitted.

Carey SHINGLES

THESE shingles do not rot, the nail heads that fasten them do not rust off, they do not dry out, curl or split, wind does not loosen them.

This is because the body of the shingle is made of wool felt saturated and built up with Carey tempered asphalt which protects the nail heads and makes the shingle elastic, flexible and permanently water-proof.

Carey Shingles meet the requirements of building laws and fire underwriters. They are surfaced with crushed slate which is spark-proof.

They are offered in red or green shades—the natural fadeless slate colors. They require no paint to keep them permanently beautiful. Place your order early.

They Go Together

When you see an attractive, well-painted home, it's more than likely that home has been "Green-Sealed." For more than thirty-three years Hanna's Green Seal Paint has been keeping homes clean and fresh looking, and thus adding to the civic beauty.

HANNA'S GREEN-SEAL PAINT

has, however, a still more important job than beautifying. It is to save the property from deterioration, by saving the wood surface from decay. And Green Seal works at this job year in and year out, withstanding the worst kinds of weather.

Insist that Green Seal be used on your next painting job. Formula on every package.

ANOTHER WOMAN ESCAPES

Woman Avoided a Serious Injury by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in Time

Down, Ill.—"After my first child I suffered so with my left side that I could not walk across the room unless I was all humped over, holding my side. I consulted several doctors but found no relief and they said I would have to have an operation. My mother insisted on my taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I soon found relief. Now I can do all my own work and it is the Vegetable Compound that has saved me from an operation. I cannot praise your medicine too highly and I tell all of my friends and neighbors what the Compound did for me."—Mrs. MARGARET McCUMBER, 27 S. Frazier St., Georgetown, Illinois.

Lydia E. Pinkham is one of the unnumbered thousands of housewives who struggle to keep about their daily tasks, while suffering from ailments peculiar to women with backache, sideaches, headaches, bearing-down pains and nervousness, and if every such woman should profit by her experience and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial they would get well.

Fraternity the Great Need. It was Victor Hugo who conceived this thought: "The true resistance of man against catastrophes is an augmentation of humanity. Love one another, aid one another. Solidarity of men is the resort to complicity of mysterious facts. It is thus that it is established on earth the third term of the grand human formula, fraternity. Governments put obstacles in the way of liberty and equality, they will come in their time, in spite of the monarchy; equality in spite of the aristocracy. But fraternity is the opening of the empty purse, the helping hand."

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased. Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney disease.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store. However, if you wish to test to see if your preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper—Adv.

Fatal to Files. Fly-swatters and screens will be relegated to the junk pile if the Department of Agriculture finds merit in the fly-killing properties claimed for a sapling grown from the seed of a Kentucky coffee tree by the late Prof. George F. Holmes of the University of Virginia. Professor Holmes asserted that the tree gave off a peculiar poison fatal to flies and therefore was a boon to humanity. He planted it in his garden and requested that it be dedicated as his only memorial.

Love never recognizes hardships in its way.

Kentucky News Cullings

An epitome of the most important events transpiring throughout the state

Whitesburg.—David Adington, Jeweler, St. Paul, Va., and formerly of this state, was shot and instantly killed by R. L. Hanson, postman of that town. It is said the officer was trying to make an arrest.

Lagrange.—E. B. Cunningham, 67, a farmer of Cedar Point, five miles from Lagrange, committed suicide by cutting his throat. His health is given as the probable cause. Cunningham is survived by a wife and seven children. The funeral will be held at Campbellsville Tuesday.

Glasgow.—Joe Bush, 75 years old, tied his feet together, fastened the rope to the stump of a tree on the bank of Peters Creek, near here, and then plunged headlong into the stream, where his body, submerged to the ankles, was found by his family who live two miles from Glasgow, this county. Bush expressed a desire to drown.

Bowling Green.—A number of Bowling Green fishermen have been violating the fish and game laws by selling and distributing the streams of Warren county, according to a statement made by H. E. Blackwell, Deputy Game Warden, Greenville, Ky., who said that he has obtained sufficient evidence against several persons and will appear before the September grand jury to ask for indictments.

Bowling Green.—"Doc" Moore, 28, and Frank Haynes, 40, were killed instantly and Moore's nephew, Edgar Moore, probably fatally hurt when struck by lightning near Amos, ten miles west of Scottsville. The men had been plowing on "Hot" farm and stopped under a tree during a storm. Both men leave widows.

Frankfort.—The bank resources of the 431 state banks March 3, 1921, were $23,262,633.80, according to an abbreviated report of the conditions of the state banks and trust companies of that date issued by James P. Lewis, state banking commissioner. The resources are divided as follows: Loans, $152,450,631.71; bonds, $8,888,308.45; cash and reserve, $56,815,270.31; overdrafts, $1,478,341.74; capital, $20,045,788.53; surplus and undivided profits, $5,000,181.42; time and savings deposits, $20,000,000.78; demand deposits, $116,856,277.67; bills payable, $7,614,108.34.

Frankfort.—Instruction camps will be held at Fort Benjamine Harrison, Ind., Camp Sherman, Ohio, and Camp Knox, Ky., for such officers and non-commissioned officers of the Kentucky National Guard as desire to attend. Only two officers and one non-commissioned officer from each unit will be authorized to attend a camp and Adj. Gen. Jackson Morris suggests that such officers be designated by the unit commanders, the selections to reach his office not later than May 20. The annual federal funds allotted for this state will not permit of the attendance of a greater number than three from each Kentucky unit.

Louisville.—Children in Louisville schools will be asked to complete the list of new and women who served during the World War. It was announced by Prof. Zenas E. Scott, superintendent of public schools. Orders directing the teachers in every grade to require pupils to supply the names of all relatives who were in the military service were issued. The material obtained will be given to the Kentucky Historical Society. Previous efforts to obtain a complete list have failed, but it is hoped by this method to perfect the roster. Careful checking of names will be resorted to prevent duplication of records. Only Louisville and Jefferson county only will be included in the survey.

Frankfort.—Adjutant General Jackson Morris announced the authorized state staff corps and departments of the Kentucky National Guard as follows: Jackson Morris, lieutenant colonel, adjutant general's department; William L. Wallace, Frankfort, major, judge advocate department; Isaac Wilder, Booneville, major, ordnance department; Thomas W. Woodard, Frankfort, major, quartermaster corps; Frank H. Luss and Jacob Smith, Frankfort, captains, quartermaster corps. He also announced the appointments of Henry J. Stiles, Louisville, major, inspector general's department; John B. Mason, London, major, medical corps; and Wiley S. Morris, Raywick, captain, quartermaster corps, completing the state staff corps and department of the Kentucky National Guard.

Danville.—Thirteen cars of a freight train northbound from Oakdale were derailed at Southfork, Lincoln county. The cars were loaded with lumber, ties and iron.

Olive Hill.—Oscar Harper, 21 years old, World War veteran, was shot and killed instantly at Gimlet, police say, by Robert Nickell, a neighbor. Officials attribute the shooting to a grudge that is said to have existed between Harper and Nickell since Jacob Harper, father of Oscar, was killed by L. Johnson several years ago.

Owensboro.—Mrs. Bertha Gordon compromised her $25,000 damage suit against G. W. Eskridge and others for $655 and costs. Mrs. Gordon shot and killed Peyton Gordon on the streets of Owensboro in May, 1919, and is now serving a term of twenty-one years in the penitentiary. Mrs. Gordon filed suit against Townsend at the time of the shooting. In coming to Owensboro from Kalamazoo, Mich., her present home, to attend the trial, Mrs. Gordon fell down a stairway and suffered a broken wrist and was badly lacerated.

Determines Ocean's Depth. By sounding with sound waves instead of a steel cable a Frenchman has been able to determine the depth of the ocean in a few seconds, where the ordinary process requires minutes and hours. In contrast to the usual equipment of cable, reels, and derrick engine he equips himself simply with a quantity of high explosive, a microphone, and a chronometer. Detecting a charge of explosive in the wake of a moving vessel, he hears in his microphone both the noise of det-

Frankfort.—The Importers and Exporters Fire Insurance Company, of New York, was admitted to do business in this state by Insurance Commissioner James F. Ramey. It will do a stock fire and fire and marine business, and has a capital of $700,000, with admitted assets of $2,210,000.

Winchester.—Relatives of Kelly B. Deane, reported to have died in service during the World War, asked the local post of the American Legion to investigate the identity of a man known only as "Willie Henry," now in an Albany, N. Y., hospital suffering from loss of memory. The request was made as a result of a story distributed over Kentucky telling of efforts being made to identify the man.

Hartsville.—In frustration an alleged attempt to liberate a prisoner in his custody, James Clem, town marshal, is declared to have shot and killed Lloyd Cornett at Port Hook. The attempt to free a man named Holbrook, in their custody, is said to have been made on them and Jim Treesh, deputy sheriff, by Cornett. The officers' refusal met with a pistol shot from Cornett, according to the report. Clem, in returning the fire, killed Cornett, two bullets taking effect.

Frankfort.—One of the greatest riches of Kentucky, and one which never has been drawn upon, although preparations are under way for extensive operations, is the oil shale that crops out in thirty-three counties, according to a paper just published by Prof. Willard R. Allison, state geologist. The deposits of shale that are commercially workable, he estimated, are worth $61,801,885,205 at a conservative estimate.

Dwensboro.—Because the proposed route for the Ohio River road through the western section of Daviess county passes through several front yards and runs within a few feet of a number of front doors at the town Maclure, there is some delay in letting the contract for that portion of the road. It is expected that an agreement will be reached within the next few days with the landowners and the contract will then be let. There is only a short distance of road to be improved in Daviess county to connect with the Hancock County Ohio River route road.

Frankfort.—The greatest duty the tax commissioner owes to the public is to see that all property subject to taxation is assessed at its fair value, be estimated at the price it would bring at a fair voluntary sale, said Attorney General Charles I. Dawson, in an address at the county tax commissioner's conference. Unless property is assessed at its fair value, the burden of taxation can not be equitably distributed. A fair cash value assessment would mean more taxes and permit a reduction of the tax rate both for state and local purposes.

Lexington.—Stocks and bonds totaling $23,700 in value were taken from the safes in two offices in the McClelland office building, on Short street, it was reported to police. From a safe in the office of Dr. J. S. Goodrich $500 in Liberty bonds and $12,000 in bonds were taken, and from Bailey D. Barry, lawyer, $200 in Liberty bonds and War Savings stamps and $11,000 in stocks. Most of the stocks are not negotiable without signature. The robberies were discovered upon Barry's return from Cincinnati, where he has been under care of a physician. The safes were opened without aid of an explosive.

Bowling Green.—A petition signed by Judge McKenzie Moss, trial judge, Commonwealth Attorney John J. Gilliam and County Attorney G. D. Milliken, will be presented to Gov. Morrow in a few days for the parole of Rosa Jones from the Frankfort penitentiary. Three children, one girl, aged 9, who is 11, two sons 5 and 3 years, live in a one-room shanty on the Underwood farm in Lovers Lane. They remain alone all day while the father, Mark Chandler, is at work in the fields. The Jones woman was convicted with Martin Brown, oil driller, at the January term of court for grand larceny.

Frankfort.—Having declared that it was his intention to serve out the entire two years of his sentence rather than to go to work in the shoeshop, Ramey Hall, serving two years for assault with intent to kill, was adjudged insane and will be taken to the Eastern State Hospital at Lexington. Hall shattered all records for remaining in the "sol," having occupied it for more than forty days. Twenty days ago he was taken out of the solitary on his promise to go to work. After getting a good night's sleep and his breakfast he again "struck" and remained in the "sol." Prison officials declare that Hall's case is the most peculiar they ever have dealt with. He was deprived of the usual bread and water of the solitary menu for forty-eight hours, but this did not cause him to weaken in his refusal to work.

Frankfort.—The right of women to serve on juries is the question involved in the case of Adolph McLaughlin against the Commonwealth, which was taken to the Court of Appeals from the Jefferson Circuit Court. McLaughlin was convicted of shooting and wounding and sentenced to twelve months in jail. He attempted to secure his release by habeas corpus proceedings, questioning the legality of the verdict on the ground that women could not serve on juries. The court dismissed the writ and the case comes up new on its merits.

Louisville.—Burglars obtained $5,400 in cash, Liberty bonds and jewelry by cracking a safe in the office of the Mary Anderson Theater, after wounding a man who was tuning the theater organ and using ropes to render the night watchman helpless. A few minutes later they fled from Keith's National Theater after firing a shot at the night watchman, who surprised them in the theater lobby. They were in an automobile and were seen by several persons, who said there were four in the band.

An Old-Fashioned Girl. "Did you hear what that young woman said?" "No. What is it?" "She told the young fellow with her that she 'just loved to cook.'" "Ah! An old-fashioned girl. She's using the 'vamping' methods popular twenty years ago."

SHIPPING BOARD IS CHARGED WITH GRAFT

WILLIAM S. KENYON, IOWAN TELLS SENATORS IN DEBATE ON DEFICIT BILL.

Reckless Spending of Funds Charged But Budget Passes, With Boost of $55,000,000—Kentucky Hospital Project Is Among Items.

Washington.—After hearing denunciation of the Shipping Board for its "mismanagement" of the merchant marine by Senator William S. Kenyon, of Iowa, Republican, and others, the Senate approved a $75,000,000 deficiency appropriation for it, and a few hours later passed the deficiency appropriation bill, carrying a total of $34,000,000, inclusive of the Shipping Board item. In approving the appropriation the Senate added an amendment offered by Senator Irvine L. Lenroot, of Wisconsin, Republican, directing the board to sell all wooden ships before October 1.

The board, in its management of the merchant marine, was described by Senator Kenyon as being extravagant, wasteful and "reeking with graft." Other Senators, including Alvin Pomeroy, of Ohio, Democrat, and Miles Tamm, of Washington, Republican, denounced it, but Senators Walter E. Edge, of New Jersey, Republican; Wesley L. Jones, of Washington, Republican, and others, who said there had been extravagance and waste in the past, argued that the new board, soon to be appointed, should not be penalized through lack of funds for mistakes that were "water over the dam."

Salaries paid to Shipping Board officials and employees were the particular target against which Senator Kenyon shot his hottest invectives. He read into the Congressional record a number of them drawing salaries running into five figures, and showed to the Senate a book a foot square and a half inch thick which, he said, contained only the names of employees of the board. Estimating that Shipping Board operations cost the government a daily cost of $100,000, Senator Kenyon declared that "unless these expenses can be stopped the American public will not stand for this thing much longer."

The Iowa Senator's charges aroused the Senate so that in the debate of the deficiency bill that followed, a half dozen Senators were on their feet at the same time, seeking either to denounce the board and its administration or to defend it and plead for the approval of the $75,000,000 appropriation, a net increase of $50,000,000 in excess of the amount given to the board by the House.

America's Lost Judge. Washington.—Lectures from Paris that the Reparations Commission again might take up the question of the status under reparations agreements of the German shipping seized in this country during the war, were met here with the statement that any payments to the commission on account of these seizures was a question for the United States alone to decide.

Few Cheers in Moscow. Riga, Latvia.—The Third Congress of the Third Internationale is scheduled to open in the Kremlin at Moscow amid a setting greatly contrasting with previous gatherings of the world's "direct actionists." The Moscow Izvestia announced that the congress, which is scheduled to the meetings, which in previous years were the occasion of great proletarian rejoicing.

Have a Chew? Atlantic City, N. J.—Dr. William H. Gieseler, of Camden, told the New Jersey State Dental Society, in annual convention here, that an "old-fashioned chew of tobacco" was one of the best disinfectants known to dental science. He declared that if reformers succeeded in banishing tobacco, diseases of the teeth and gums were likely to increase.

Outlay of $800,000,000. Phoenix, Ariz.—Application of the Southern California Edison Company to the Federal Reserve Bank for a loan of $800,000,000 to build a dam on the Colorado River was filed with the State War Commissioner. Promoters of the project say it involves an ultimate expenditure of about $800,000,000, or twice as much as the amount spent on the Panama Canal.

Nab Only Four Deserters. New York.—Of 7,572 alleged draft dodgers in this district only four have been turned over to the army as deserters, United States Attorney Caffey announced. He added that only 729 had been located, and in the cases of 427 no prosecutions had been entered for various reasons.

Eleven Are Arrested. Williamson, W. Va.—Following a full in which not an arrest was made by the state police for more than 60 hours, 11 men were taken into custody. The municipal election conducted in Williamson permitted gathering of small bodies of men at the polling places and four arrests were made in the city. W. C. Coombs, one of the witnesses for the defendants in the Maewen battle trial of last January, was arrested at Kernitt, W. Va. He is said to have carried a revolver.

Veterans' Bonus Measure. Washington.—Additional arguments in support of early passage of the soldiers' adjusted compensation bill was submitted to a subcommittee of the Senate Finance Committee by a committee from the American Legion, composed of Colonel Fred W. Galbraith Jr., and Gilbert Bettman, of Cincinnati, National Commander and member of the Executive Committee, respectively, and John Thomas Taylor, of Philadelphia, a member of the Legislative Committee.

Current Affairs. "Does your wife take any interest in current politics?" "Not at present, she's too much taken up with current fiction."

RETAINED RELICS OF GALILEO

Fanatical Admirer of the Great Italian Insisted on Keeping Portions of His Body.

The report that Robert Bruce's heart has been discovered at Melrose, in Scotland, reminds an Italian paper of the fate of Galileo's remains, according to the Manchester (Eng.) Guardian.

When the body of Galileo was exhumed from its original resting place on March 12, 1737, and removed to the magnificent mausoleum in the Church of Santa Croce, Florence, Marquis Vincenzo Capponi, who was a fanatical admirer of Galileo, took possession of the right-hand thumb and forearm.

Some of those present at the exhumation protested strongly, but the marquis had his way, declaring his intention to "cherish these fingers as sacred relics," which prompted the report: "Instead of Galileo's fingers it would be better for you to have his brains."

This had example proved contagious, for the left thumb and one of the ribs were annexed by two other members of the company, and these relics are now in the museum of the university. Marquis Capponi had an ancestor for his portion of the body which all newcomers were called upon to admire as the greatest treasure in the house.

At the beginning of the last century the Capponi family fell upon evil days and emigrated to France, leaving the Galileo relics to become the property of an old butler who had long been in their service. Other oddments given him by his master proved salable, but he could find no market for Galileo's finger and thumb, and these eventually passed to one of the butler's descendants, Signora Laura Jodi. In 1905, when she was old and poor, some one advised Signora Jodi to offer to sell the relics to the Italian government. Inquiries were instituted which proved the authenticity of the relics beyond a doubt, and they are now preserved with other mementoes of Galileo, the vendor having received a handsome price for them.

Bad Control. Producer Hal E. Hunt found his star comedian, Harold Lloyd, sprawled on the dressing-room floor trying to get a million dollars' worth of laugh out of his system. Lloyd had turned a studio corner at the right moment to see what he could do with a "hot scrap" between two dinky "extras." Just when it appeared that the heavy blows were on tap, one of the belligerents started on a dead run across the lot and hurdled a fence.

"I'm surprised at you, G. W.," Lloyd said when he met the runaway a half hour later, never thought you would show a streak of yellow like that."

"Ah wasn't runnin', Mistah Lloyd, honest 'Ah wasn't," came the answer; "Ah'm 'flicted 'at way. Whenah Ah gets in a fight, Ah jus' kaint control mah legs, 'at's all."

A Sane Goffer. "Well, I've at least reached the point where I think I shall be able to get a little comfort out of golf." "That so? Mastered the swing, have you?" "Not at all. I've just brought myself, after years of disappointment, to the conclusion that I am never going to be an amateur champion. From now on I shall try to enjoy breaking one hundred now and then."

Uncle Joe's First Wage. Joseph G. Cannon, former speaker of the national house of representatives, went to work in 1850 at the age of fourteen years. His first job was clerk in a grocery store, and one of his duties was to deliver parcels as well as wrap them. He worked "from sun to sun," as was the custom in those days, and in the winter he started work before sunup and worked until sundown. His wage was $1.50 a week, out of which he was expected to board and clothe himself.

Perkins Keep Wives Apart. The most interesting fact I gathered from the round gourd was that he had seven sons and many daughters. He had no more to count—and two wives, one at Abadeh and one at Burnek. I found most Mohammedan worthies agreed that, though allowed four legal wives, one is generally enough, and if two are owned they are placed in separate localities, as the saying runs, "Better two fingers in a single den than two braying wenchies."—National Geographic Magazine.

Nothing Serious. "You have no heart?" "This sounds like a melodrama. 'Let me see your tongue.'" "No, it's a doctor calling. 'Gimme some tripe.'" "After all, it's just an episode at the butcher's."

Sunday School Lesson

LESSON FOR JUNE 12

MAKING THE WORLD CHRISTIAN. LESSON TEXT—Isa. 11:1-10; Acts 1:6-9. GOLDEN TEXT—The earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea.—Isa. 11:9. REFERENCE MATERIAL—Esther 4:1-5:6; Ps. 33:12; Prov. 14:4.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus' Love for the World.

JUNIOR TOPIC—What Jesus Did for the World.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Helping to Make a Better World.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christian Patriotism.

If by "Making the World Christian" the lesson committee means the conversion of the world in this dispensation by the preaching of the gospel, then we submit that they are in error, leading the people into false hopes. The main text chosen for our study pictures as the glorious coming age when Christ shall reign over the whole earth. Before this will take place Christ shall come in person and destroy the works of the devil and blind him and cast him into the pit (Rev. 19:11-21; 1 Thess. 2:3-10).

1. The Reign of Messiah the King (Isa. 11:1-12).

1. Messiah's lineage (v. 1). It was to be of David's line—royal stock. A rod or twig was to come out of Jesse, which indicates that the royal house was in a depressed state.

2. Messiah's qualifications (v. 2). (1) The Spirit of the Lord, that is, a divine person proceeding from the Father and Son. (2) Spirit of wisdom, giving insight into all things human and divine. (3) Spirit of understanding, that is, to choose that which is highest and best. (4) Spirit of counsel, that is, the ability to make plans. (5) Spirit of might, that is, the ability to execute his plans. (6) Spirit of knowledge, that is, the ability to perceive the will of God in all things. (7) The fear of the Lord, that is, reverential and obedient fear.

3. The character of Messiah (v. 3-5). (1) Quick to understand goodness (v. 3). (2) He shall not judge after external appearances (v. 3). (3) Shall not decide upon hearsay (v. 3). Each case shall be decided upon on the basis of absolute and perfect knowledge. (4) He shall defend and avenge the poor and meek of the earth (v. 4). The meek shall inherit the earth when Messiah reigns (Matt. 5:5). (5) Shall subdue the realm (v. 4). Those whom He smiles are the ungodly inhabitants who are then in federation against Christ. The head of this federation is the Antichrist (2 Thess. 2:2-9). (6) He shall have a zeal for justice and truth (v. 5).

4. Universal peace (vv. 6-9). This is a picture of the glorious golden age of which poets have sung and for which the wise men of all ages have longed and looked. There will then be peace not only between men, but between animals. This peace and harmony is shown in that in each change suggested each animal is coupled with its natural prey. (1) The wolf shall dwell with the lamb (v. 6). "Dwell" means intimacy, as if the lamb should receive the wolf into its home. The only place and circumstance at present in which the wolf and lamb dwell together is when the lamb is inside the wolf. (2) The leopard shall lie down with the kid (v. 6). (3) The calf, young lion, and fattening lamb shall be together (v. 6). They shall not only be together, but a little child can lead them. (4) The cow and the bear shall feed together (v. 7). (5) The lion shall eat straw (v. 7). No longer flesh. (6) The sucking child shall play on the hole of the asp (v. 8). The most venomous serpent shall not harm little children. (7) The lion shall receive the wolf into its home. The only place and circumstance at present in which the wolf and lamb dwell together is when the lamb is inside the wolf. (2) The leopard shall lie down with the kid (v. 6). (3) The calf, young lion, and fattening lamb shall be together (v. 6). They shall not only be together, but a little child can lead them. (4) The cow and the bear shall feed together (v. 7). (5) The lion shall eat straw (v. 7). No longer flesh. (6) The sucking child shall play on the hole of the asp (v. 8). The most venomous serpent shall not harm little children. (7) The lion shall receive the wolf into its home. FORCED TO FIGHT FOR HER BREATH

HUSBAND GOES DOWN HILL

Finally Both Decide to Put Tanlac to Test and as a Result Have Enjoyed Best of Health for Past Three Years.

"Both my wife and myself have put Tanlac to the test and we call it the greatest medicine in the world," said J. T. Stoutman, 1123 Third Ave., North, Nashville, Tenn., artistic sign painter for the Cusack Company. Mr. Stoutman has lived in Nashville for nearly thirty years and is highly respected by all who know him.

"Before my wife took Tanlac she suffered so badly from gas on her stomach and heartburn that she often said she felt like she was smothering to death. She actually had to sit up in bed to get her breath.

"Well, in a short time after she began taking Tanlac her trouble disappeared and she was like a different person. Seeing the good results in her case, I began taking the medicine myself and I soon had me feeling like a brand new man.

"Up to that time I had been troubled with indigestion. I had no appetite and the little I did eat seemed to do me about as much harm as good. I felt so tired and languid I hated to move around, and was getting in such a run-down condition that it worried me.

"Tanlac acted with me just like it did with my wife, and although that was three years ago we have enjoyed the best of health all along. However, I keep a bottle of Tanlac in the house all the time, and when I feel myself getting run down the medicine soon has me feeling all right again. I am convinced that Tanlac is worth an equivalent of all I don't hesitate to tell anyone about it."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.—Adv.

Pearlie's Sorrow.
Upon returning from kindergarten one afternoon Jerome said to his mother: "Oh, mamma, Pearlie Peterson cried and cried in kindergarten today."

"What was the matter, Jerome?" the mother inquired, sympathetically.
"Well, you know," Jerome replied, "Miss Finn let us have a Washington's birthday party, and Pearlie brought a handkerchief for Washington, and Miss Finn told her he was dead."

Profiteering? Well—

Officials of a department store in Sacramento recently advertised in local papers that on a certain day they would devote the entire space in one of their display windows to an exhibit of the goods in which the store was profiteering. The next day, crowds of women found the window empty.

"Good evening, Cranston," he said pleasantly.
Cranston was also upon his feet the same instant. His instincts were entirely true. He knew if he leaped for his rifle, Dan would be upon his back in an instant, and he would have no chance to use it. The rifle was now out of the rooming, as they were at about equal distances from it, and neither would have time to swing or aim it.

Dan's sudden appearance had been so utterly unlooked for, that for a moment Cranston could find no answer. His eyes moved to the rifle then to his belt where hung his hunting knife, that still lay on the table. "Good evening, calling," he replied, trying his hardest to fall into that strange spirit of nonchalance with which brave men have so often met their adversaries, and which Dan had now.

"I'm surprised to see you here. What do you want?"
Dan's voice when he replied was no more warm than the snow banks that he forced the door to. "I want your rifle," he said. "It's all right," Dan told him, and he stepped nearer. "Not only for that, Cranston. We're face to face at set-hands to hands. I've got a knife in my pocket, but I'm not even going to use it. I want everything's square between us."

"Perhaps you've forgotten that day on the ridge," Cranston asked. "You haven't any woman to save you this time."

"I remember the day, and that's part of the debt. The thing you did yesterday is part of it, too. It's all to be settled at last, Cranston, and I don't believe I could spare you if you went to your knees before me. You've got a clearing out by the fire—big as a prize ring. We'll go out there—side by side. And hands to hands, well, well, all these debts we have between us—with no rules of fighting and no mercy in the end."

They measured each other with their eyes. Once more Cranston's gaze stole to his rifle, but he found it was in the shadows of the tent. Dan saw the dark face drawn with passion, the hands clenching, the shoulder muscles growing into hard knots. And Cranston looked and knew that merciless weakness—that rage, old and new, and Christless, which he had followed him down and was clutching him at last.

He saw it in the position of the stalwart form before him, the clear level eyes that the moon light made bright as steel, the hand lines, the slim, powerful hands. He could read it in the tones of the voice—tones that he himself could not imitate or pretend. The hour had come for the settling of old debts.

He tried to curse his adversary as a weakling and a degenerate, but the obscure words he sought for would not come to his lips. There was his fate, and because the darkness always fades before the light, and the courage of wickedness always breaks before the courage of righteousness, Cranston was afraid to look it in the face. The fear of defeat, of death, of heaven knows what remorselessness with which this grave giant would administer justice was upon him, and his heart seemed to freeze in his breast. Unwillingly he stepped for his knife on the blankets below him.

Dan was upon him before he ever reached it. He spring as a cougar springs, incredibly fast and with slanting power. Both went down, and for a long time they writhed and struggled in each other's arms. The pine-logs rustled strangely.

The dark, gaunt hand reached in vain for the knife. Some restless power seemed to be holding his wrist and was leading his hand as an Indian leads a horse. Tanlac rushed through him. And then the dark, gaunt hand, who had never known the meaning of mercy, opened his lips to scream that this terrible enemy be merciful to him.

But the words would come. A closely weight had come at his throat, and his nostrils hung sodden for breath. Then, for a long time, he lay in a motionless, breathing sound. He lay in a motionless, breathing sound. He lay in a motionless, breathing sound.

But Dan got upon him last, in a strange, heavy, and swiftly went to work. He took the rifle and filled it with shells from Cranston's belt. Then he put the remaining two boxes of shells into his shirt pocket. The supplies of food the sack of nuttallions jerked venison like dried bark, the little package of cheese, the boxes of hard tack and one of the small sacks of oatmeal he took, with a single kettle, into his heavy blankets and hung them with the rifle upon his back. Finally he took the pair of snow shoes from the floor. He worked coldly, swiftly, all the time muttering at a place of jerked venison. When he had finished he walked to the door of the tent.

It seemed to Dan that Cranston whispered faintly, from his unconsciousness, as he passed; but the victor did not turn to look. The snow shoes crunched away into the darkness. On the hill behind a half-drawn veil, the strangers from the pack—fish and leopards—leaped about in a curious way. A strange smell had reached them on the wind, and when the loud, fearful steps were out of hearing, it might pay them to creep down, one by one, and investigate his case.

The gray circle about the fire was growing impatient. Snowdrift waited to the last instant before she admitted this fact. But it is possible only so long to deny the truth of a thing that all the senses verify, and that moment for her was past.

She noticed that when she went to her hands and knees, laboriously to get a piece of the dried food from the rain-soaked, rotting sack that was her principal supply of fuel, every wolf would long forward, only to draw back when she stood straight up. She worked desperately to keep the burning light. She dared not neglect it for a moment. Except for the pistol ball that she could afford to expend on the wolves—the three she had—the fire was her last defense.

But it was a losing fight. The snowdrift wood smoked without flame, the comparatively dry fire with which Dan had started the fire had burned down, and the green wood, backed with such heart-breaking difficulty from the saplings that Dan had cut, needed the most tireless attention to burn at all.

by one across the face of the wilderness, and she thought that the deepening cold presaged dawn. Her fingers were numb.

Three more she went to one of the saplings, but she stumbled and almost went to her face at the first blow. It was the instant that her gray wolfers had been waiting for. The wolf that stood nearest leaped a gray streak out of the shadow and every wolf in the pack shot forward with a yell. It was a short, expectant cry; but it dropped off short. For with a half-sob, and seemingly without real process, she aimed her pistol and fired.

A last-bling wolf is one of the most difficult targets that can be imagined. It bordered on the minute when that old Dan had shot at the wolf. Her nerves were torn, their control over her muscles largely gone. Yet the bullet coursed down through the lungs, inflicting a mortal wound.

The wolf had leaped for her throat, but he fell short. She staggered from a blow, and she heard a curious sound then sped off in the darkness into the night. Her eyes were torn, their control over her muscles largely gone. Yet the bullet coursed down through the lungs, inflicting a mortal wound.

Some Resistless Power Seemed to Be Holding His Wrist.

—came standing across the snow to ward her. White fangs had come home; and a new madness was in the air.

Striding into the silence, a perfectly straight line between Cranston's camp and Snowdrift's, Dan falling came rushing across the snow. His speed of direction had never been obliged to stand such a test as this. Snowdrift's fire was a single shot, and a single shot; yet he had gone straight toward it.

"Devil's Corkscrews" Found in Western Mountains and Plains Are No Longer a Mystery.

Of the many fossils which have come out of the mountains and plains of the West, few have excited wider interest than the "devil's corkscrews" found in rocks of the Miocene period, in northwestern Nebraska. They are usually white, and stand out clearly against the buff background of the rock which incloses them, often attaining a length of 15 feet, with many twists and turns, ending at times in a large bulb, with occasional side passages.

When first discovered it was thought that these gigantic "corkscrews" were large petrified vines of roots of some strange plant. Still, of the "corkscrews," however, failed to reveal any traces of plant structure. Later the skeleton of an animal like the badger was found in a large bulb near the end of the "corkscrew," and bones of a small camel and small deer were discovered in others. After that it was discovered that many of them contained bones of a small burrowing animal about the size of the western prairie dog. Excavation of actual recent prairie-dog burrows, after filling them with thin plaster of paris, would make these facts clear. The burrows of the prairie dog and the "corkscrews" were closely similar. The mystery is considered solved.

Device Overcomes Sleeplessness.
No one need suffer from sleeplessness any longer. A device has been invented which, it is claimed, will better the worst case of insomnia in a matter of a few minutes. The machine, which in appearance is rather complicated, consists of a number of discs which, when the starting handle is moved, rotate in opposite directions. All that the sufferer has to do is to keep his eyes on the discs as they turn, until after a short spell of watching he gradually sinks into a sound sleep.

Hadn't Wasted Any Time.
A young couple rushed into a marriage house bureau recently and announced to the clerk that they wished to be married at once. Dan Caplin's executive officer surveyed the couple from under his monocle and said severely: "I'm afraid this is a run-away match." "Well, your honor," returned the prospective groom, "I can't exactly say we ran, but we walked pretty fast."

The man who makes trouble between two women gets more enjoyment out of it than they do.

Boy Kills a Coyote With Hands.
Berthung, N. D.—According to a story being told here, Jewell Christian, thirteen years old, saw a big coyote attack his shepherd dog. The coyote was winning the fight when the boy entered the battle and killed the animal with his hands. The coyote was full grown and measured four feet six inches in length.

The Easier Way.

"That's one way of keeping her but it seems to me I'd rather let her go and take my chances on finding another."

COUNTRY MOUSE

By ADELAIDE R. KEMP.

(Copyright, 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Lydia Warren followed her young niece automatically down the valley of palms and gilt, called in common parlance "Peacock alley." With burning cheeks she passed the gamut of eyes, and she looked askance at her ankle-length skirt and broad-toed shoes.

The head waiter, like an executioner, led them to a bare-trimmed, candle-lit table and obsequiously assisted Lydia out of her unbecomingly jacket.

She was tired after her morning shopping in the city, which she had not visited before for a decade, and hungry, too. So she gladly accepted Marjorie's invitation to a little snack before catching the afternoon train home. Unfortunately, as they picked up their menus they were joined by three young girls, friends of Marjorie's, and Lydia was left to her own devices.

"What would you like, auntie?" said Marjorie, smiling, suddenly remembering her duty as hostess.

When the order was placed before her Lydia at once passed with a slight shiver the "Peacock," which seemed to be an arrangement of tiny, tiny eggs on a silver of toast, and helped herself to a bit of the underdone beef and a spoonful of gravy surmounted by a twig of parsley. She was thankful the chattering girls did not notice her ravenous onslaught of the bread and butter, along with cold water. And it was with a feeling of deep relief that, finding it later than they thought, she and Marjorie hurried away to the train.

"And, auntie, dear, do come down again when you can make us a visit. I used to have a room at your house when I was a kiddie," said Marjorie a bit wistfully as she kissed her good-bye.

"I probably won't be down again for a long time," said Lydia honestly. "But I'd love to have you come up and make Uncle Sam and me a visit."

"I see, Auntie, maybe I will," said Marjorie, then remembered, floating through her brain of the big, comfortable farmhouse nestled in the New Hampshire hills. A sharp wringing had caused abrupt good-byes, and Lydia settled back with a sigh of relief as she thought of home.

In the fall Marjorie, suddenly filled with a longing for the hills, went to Warren Corners for a visit. Aunt Lydia met her at the little station.

"Whatever have you been doing to yourself, child?" she asked abruptly. "You look tired to death."

"Too many late hours, auntie dear. I've just come up here to rest," answered Marjorie. Her aunt remembered the "Peacock" and drew conclusions of her own.

A long night's sleep brought a tinge of pink to Marjorie's pale cheeks. Breakfast was waiting for her at one end of the spotless kitchen table.

"We had ours three hours ago," said Lydia. "I don't think you'd be long on the dining room. She came rushing across the snow. His speed of direction had never been obliged to stand such a test as this. Snowdrift's fire was a single shot, and a single shot; yet he had gone straight toward it."

As late in November, a veritable Indian summer day, that Marjorie walked up the long road past the old house, exclaiming her but by one of its dull blue velvet ribbons. Her eyes were bright, and there was a cheery glow in her pliant face.

A young man, broad-shouldered and keen-eyed, was coming down the road. Marjorie's cheeks turned to a deeper scarlet. She looked to be Philip Mason who owned the lovely old farmhouse that nestled among the gray hills just above Aunt Lydia's. He had made life in the country additionally pleasant. He doffed his cap as he met her and exclaimed, "Good-morning! You don't look much as you did when you first came, Miss Marjorie."

"And I don't feel much the same, either," answered the girl, happily. "But I suppose I'll have to return to the city life in another week," she added. All the light suddenly went out of Marjorie's face.

"Why, I thought you would stay all winter," he said, dubiously.

"Mercy, what would poor Aunt Lydia do?" exclaimed Marjorie, adding with a merry laugh, "Why, she'd have to teach me how to cook so I could help her get me enough to eat."

The sun had gone down while they were talking, and on the horizon the hunter's moon was beginning to send its glow over the stubbly hills. Philip quietly took Marjorie's hand in his—it was the old story of the moon, the man and the maid.

Unhappily of waiting supper or worse, they finally reached home, and Aunt Lydia knew by their long faces what they would tell her later. She insisted on Philip's coming in for a "bite of supper," and he gladly accepted her invitation.

It was Saturday night and the big table was covered with good things—smoking, crackling, brown-bread, and cakes. Marjorie was hungry after her long walk, and despite the fact that she was very much in love and that Philip kept adoring eyes on her, she did fall fast asleep to the meal. Suddenly she looked at Aunt Lydia and laughed merrily.

"Oh, Auntie! Will you ever forget your lunch with the poor city mouse? And did we ever dream that one day she would become a country mouse herself?"

Baby Specialists.

THAT there are Physicians who specialize on Infant ailments you know. All Physicians understand Infant troubles: all Physicians treat them. It is his profession, his duty, to know human ills from the Stork to the Great Beyond.

But in serious cases he calls in the Specialist. Why? He knows as every Mother knows, or ought to know, that Baby is just a baby, needing special treatment, special remedies.

Can a Mother be less thoughtful? Can a Mother try to relieve Baby with a remedy that she would use for herself? Ask yourself; and answer honestly!

Always remember that Baby is just a baby. And remembering this you will remember that Fletcher's Castoria is made especially for Infants and Children.

They Ask For It.
Hillary K. Adair, the San Francisco detective, was talking about the conviction of Charles Tond.

"Oh, well," he said, "the people like to be swindled—that's my experience. When I was living in New England a Concord crook cleaned up $7,000 on a cold winter by advertising that he had a 50-cent recipe for keeping wells and cisterns from freezing. Farmers from Maine and Vermont and North Dakota and all the cold places sent for the recipe, and what they got was a printed slip which said:

"Take in your well or cistern carefully every night and stand it in front of the fire."

ASPIRIN
Name "Bayer" on Genuine

Beware! Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting genuine Aspirin prescribed by physicians for twenty-one years and proved safe by millions. Take Aspirin only as told in the Bayer package for Colds, Headache, Neuritis, Rheumatism, Eczema, Toothache, Lumbago, and for Pain. Handy tin boxes of twelve Bayer Tablets of Aspirin cost few cents. Druggists also sell larger packages. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monacettelester of Salicylic Acid.

Embarrassing Moment.
I never saw a man in a more embarrassing situation than the manager of a lecture hall in a town I used to live in.

It was the appointed hour, but the lecturer did not appear. The audience was beginning to show signs of impatience.

Suddenly the manager made his appearance on the platform.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he said, in apologetic tones, "I am sorry to have to inform you that the lecture on 'How to Live' will have to be postponed owing to the unexpected indisposition of the lecturer."

The laughter that followed lasted several minutes after he had fled from the stage.—Chicago American.

No News to Him.
A regimental band was about to be organized at one of the war-time entertainments and, after the first rehearsal, the officer in charge was signing up the musicians.

"Your name?" he asked the trombonist.

"Sam Jones," returned the embryo trombonist.

"Your station?"
"Camp Devens."
"Your rank?"
"I know it," sighed Sam.—The American Legion Weekly.

SEES FRANCE KINGDOM AGAIN

Seers Also Points Out That Present Leaders Are Reincarnation of Country's Great Men.

Considerable attention is being paid to the revelations of Marguerite Volf, who professes that France will have a king in 15 years, and that the divinity will appear in France, observes the Living Age. M. Clemenceau is a reincarnation of Napoleon, and M. Millerand of Louis XIV. Maurice Barres was also a reincarnation—such as Pindar, Homer and Plutarch. She is compelled to spend 12,000 francs a year for candles and incense in order to preserve the right vibratory atmosphere which makes possible these revelations. Sins commendate.

Cuticura Soap for the Complexion.

Her Locks Were False.
After a siege of typhoid fever my hair all came out and in order to make it come in better I had it all cut off. Had to wear a wig. One afternoon I went to the train to meet some friends and just as the engine whizzed by there was an unusually strong gust of wind. To my surprise and horror my hat and my hair went flying down the platform and there I stood looking for all the world like a brand-new robin. I cried out: "Oh, there goes my hat and my hair!" Of course that drew every one's attention and it seemed years before a kind young man returned it to me. I wasn't long in getting away from the curious crowd; my sisters greeted the newly arrived friends.—Chicago Tribune.

To be sure, the majority may be wrong, but you have to live with it. Don't forget that.

Tomorrow.
How sweet a consolation there is in that little word "tomorrow!" The poets have given it an unduly melancholy tinge—probably because "sorrow" and "borrow" are the only ready rhymes for it. You can never trust a poet to tell the truth when he is pinched for rhymes.

For poor, ensanguined humanity "tomorrow" solves all problems. Tomorrow (we trustfully say) the shirts will come back from the laundry; we will write that letter to Bill; we will give up smoking; we will be brave enough not to temper our cold bath with warm water. Tomorrow, after we have had a refreshing sleep, we will compose the immortal poem; we will refashion our life on a new, reasonable philosophy; we will get our hair cut; we will astonish the boss.

Humanity must be fond of tomorrow, because there is always so much work being saved for that occasion. He that works tomorrow will triumph yesterday.

It is sad to reflect that for each of us there is coming the day with tomorrow.—New York Evening Post.

U. S. TUBES
The same standard of quality built into U. S. Tires is put into U. S. Tubes.

Why some men seem to have all the tire luck —

YOU probably know a man whose car is a hobby with him. He knows just why it's the best little old car there is of its class. And he'll stand up for that car against the world in any kind of an argument.

Year by year an increasing number of men feel the same way about U. S. Tires.

For a while they may try "job lot" stuff, "bargains," "big discounts" and "rebates."

But usually it doesn't take long for a man to sense the economy of the standard quality tire.

For years U. S. Tire makers have been building quality tires for sane tire users—for the car of medium or light weight no less than for the heavy car.

The tire buyers of the land have responded with a mighty U. S. Tire following.

The U. S. Tire makers meet the responsibility for supplying this nationwide following with characteristic energy.

Ninety-two U. S. Factory Branches are established, covering the entire country.

Find the U. S. Tire dealer who has the intention of serving you. You will know him by his full, completely sized line of fresh, live U. S. Tires—quality first, and the same choice of size, tread and type as in the biggest cities of the land

UNUSUAL CONDITION

Texas Lady Suffered With Pulling and Aching Pains in Her Back, Which Cardui Relieved.

Houston, Texas.—Mrs. C. D. Cook, of 1912 Whitty Street, this city, recently said: "About four months after my marriage, I began suffering much pain, and knew that my condition was unusual, but couldn't just decide what was wrong. I had to go to bed."

"All across my back and hips were pains, pulling and aching until I could hardly sit up. I stayed in bed a few days. My husband had heard of Cardui... so I told him he might get it."

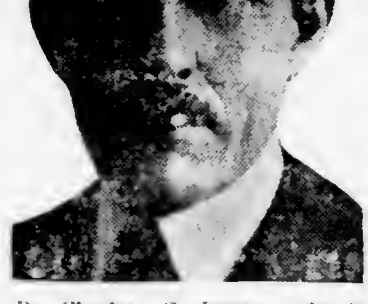

"After I had taken Cardui a few days, I was up. I took five bottles and haven't been in bed since for this trouble, for if I have the least symptoms of this trouble I get Cardui and take it in time."

"I have a number of friends who have used Cardui, and they recommend it very highly."

The experience of this Texas lady is similar to that related by thousands of other women.

Cardui is purely vegetable, and mild and gentle in its action. Cardui may be the very medicine you need if suffering with womanly troubles.

Take Cardui. NC-136

Words of Wise Men.

There are words that help as well as words that hinder. The first we should cheerfully take up, and the latter we should cast off.

The easiest time to do a disagreeable duty is when we first decide it is a duty. Every day and delay double the unpleasantness, and hours of foreboding and misgiving are piled in disconcerting the decisive action that must come at last. Doubling the disagreeable is a losing game.

Maintain Your Best Pace.

You are unfair to yourself when you limit your possibilities to the other fellow's pace. You are not bound to wear his handicap. It may be the courteous thing to go as slowly as he does, but that's merely a matter of consideration and doesn't represent your capacity. Let your own inner urge be the compelling force that keeps you to your best pace. You won't be happy dragging along when you should be speeding. Besides this, doing things at show gait demands more energy than should be used for the operation. To do the work right you should be immersed in it so that you give your whole thought to the thing you do. The fact that every word is a new challenge keeps you up to your best and assures your best effort. To see things being done that reflect skill and ability is the call that is answered by still better effort.

Where Lincoln Was Going.

A characteristic story of Lincoln is related by his biographer, the Rev. Dr. John Wesley Hill. In 1863, when Lincoln made his single-term race for congress, he was prevailed upon to attend a revival meeting conducted by the renowned evangelist, Peter Cartwright. The famous orator called for all desiring to go to heaven to stand up. All arose but Lincoln. Then he asked all to rise who did not want to go to hell. Lincoln remained still seated. "I am surprised," said Brother Cartwright, "to see Abe Lincoln sitting back there unmoved by these appeals. If Mr. Lincoln does not want to go to heaven and does not want to escape hell, perhaps he will tell us where he does want to go." Lincoln slowly arose and replied, "I am going to congress." And he went for one term, as per "gentleman's agreement."

No Timbering in This Mine.

The world's northernmost coal mine is in Spitzbergen, well within the Arctic circle. It lies under a depth of a thousand feet of solid frozen earth. The temperature in the rooms is 7 degrees Fahrenheit, 25 degrees below freezing, the year round, and, naturally, there is no pumping. The frozen rock holds and there is no timbering. The mine employs two hundred to three hundred men, and there is said to be a constant waiting list of one thousand. The heating value of the coal is 14,500 B. T. U., and 30,000 tons were produced in 1919. The mine is operated by American methods and with American machinery, having been purchased in 1904 by a Mr. Longyear of Boston, and later sold at a handsome profit to a Norwegian firm—From the Compressed Air Magazine (N. Y.).

Poet Laureateship of England.

The poet laureateship of England has been an office of high honor since the days of Geoffrey Chaucer, but it was not until the reign of James I. that a royal patent was granted by which the poet laureate became an officer of the crown at a salary of about $200 a year, with a third of emolument from the royal cellars as perquisite. Ben Jonson was the first Turks Without Fear of Death.

One of the reasons the Turks used to be such good soldiers was because contempt for life is the essence of the faith for which they fought. "Divinely calm" are words that have been employed to describe the profound and complete resignation to the will of Allah which is an integral part of the Mohammedan faith. The place Mohammedan has ever present in his mind the end of earth and the beginning of life beyond. The Turk is said to consider himself as an individual camped in the world, and his nation has so long been camped in Europe. And he considers the joys of life only shadows in comparison with the everlasting delights which await him in paradise.
Swiss Buy American Cheese.
Talk about carrying coals to Newcastle! exclaims the Philadelphia Ledger. Pennsylvania is sending Swiss cheese to Switzerland. Grove City is the place that made the record. Two carloads were shipped in 1920. It passed in Switzerland as the home-grown article—Schweizerkase of fame. Groves dairy wonders do not end with the manufacture of "real" Swiss cheese. They include the kind of which America customarily imports some $18,000,000 worth a year, except that Groves City's article is made from pure cow's milk and the French product is founded on the milk of goats.
